

AND

BUILDING COMMUNITY THROUGH ART

Printmaking encourages community, whether in our college and university printshops, in our independent studios, or in the relationships we develop across the country and world. We're inviting you to expand your community by being part of the And exhibition. This exhibition will be displayed at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; the University of Wisconsin-Madison; and culminating at the University of Iowa, where it will be included in the Iowa Print Archive.

CALL FOR ENTRY

We invite artists to create postcards for the exhibition conceptually related to the theme "and"; we encourage you to explore the theme and submit multiple times. Feel free to work in any medium of your choice, including digital. If you're submitting work digitally, you can send an email to and.artshow@gmail.com with your work attached as an image. For printed postcards, send one copy to each of the following addresses. Please include your email address on the back of the postcard; you will be notified when we receive the card and the dates of the exhibition. (If you are part of a class or organization, your group is welcome to send the prints in one package to the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, to save on postage.)
